Four Freedoms Speech

January 6, 1941

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

I address you, the Members of the Seventy-Seventh Congress, at a moment unprecedented in the history of the Union. I use the word "unprecedented", because at no previous time has American security been as seriously threatened from without as it is today.

Since the permanent formation of our government under the Constitution, in 1789, most of the periods of crisis in our history have related to our domestic affairs. Fortunately, only one of these -- the four year War Between the States -- ever threatened our national unity. Today, thank God, one hundred and thirty million Americans, in forty-eight States, have forgotten points of the compass in our national unity.

It is true that prior to 1914 the United States often had been disturbed by events in other Continents. We had even engaged in two wars with European nations and in a number of undeclared wars in the West Indies, in the Mediterranean and in the Pacific for the maintenance of American rights and for the principles of peaceful commerce. In no case, however, had a serious threat been raised against our national safety or our independence.

What I seek to convey is the historic truth that the United States as a nation has at all times maintained opposition to any attempt to lock us in behind an ancient Chinese wall while the procession of civilization went past.

The first is freedom of speech and expression-- everywhere in the world.

The second is freedom of every person to worship God
in his own way--everywhere in the world.

The third is freedom from every nation a healthy peacetime life for its inhabitants--everywhere in the world want--which, translated into world terms, means economic understandings which will secure to.

The fourth is freedom from fear--which, translated into world terms, means a world-wide reduction of armaments to such a point and in such a thorough fashion that no nation will be in a position to commit an act of physical aggression against any neighbor-- anywhere in the world.

Roosevelt Scores Isolation Theory

FOREIGN POLICY OF U. S. GIVEN BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. (UPI)—President Roosevelt's message to Congress today... The tone of President Roosevelt's annual message to Congress... is the clearest of the United States.

Such a peace would bring us security for us as for our neighbors... "I can see the way to peace," he said. "It is the way of the 'good neighbor' policy."

We must stress the way of peace... "I can see the way to peace," he said. "It is the way of the 'good neighbor' policy."

It is true that prior to 1914 the United States had had no... "I can see the way to peace," he said. "It is the way of the 'good neighbor' policy."

FREEDOM FROM FEAR

The FOUR FREEDOMS

MESSAGE TO THE 77th CONGRESS • • • JANUARY 6, 1941

IN the future days, which we seek to make secure, we look forward to a world founded upon four essential human freedoms.

The first is freedom of speech and expression—everywhere in the world.

The second is freedom of every person to worship God in his own way—everywhere in the world.

The third is freedom from want—which translated into world terms, means economic understandings which will secure to every nation a healthy peacetime life for its inhabitants—everywhere in the world.

The fourth is freedom from fear—which translated into world terms, means a world-wide reduction of armaments to such a point and in such a thorough fashion that no nation will be in a position to commit an act of physical aggression against any neighbor—anywhere.

INSTRUCTIONS

- 1 This book is valuable. Do not lose it.
- 2 Each stamp authorizes you to purchase rationed goods in the quantities and at the times designated by the Office of Price Administration. Without the stamps you will be unable to purchase those goods.
- 3 Detailed instructions concerning the use of the book and the stamps will be issued. Watch for those instructions so that you will know how to use your book and stamps. Your Local War Price and Rationing Board can give you full information.
- 4 Do not throw this book away when all of the stamps have been used, or when the time for their use has expired. You may be required to present this book when you apply for subsequent books.

Rationing is a vital part of your country's war effort. Any attempt to violate the rules is an effort to deny someone his share and will create hardship and help the enemy.

This book is your Government's assurance of your right to buy your fair share of certain goods made scarce by war. Price ceilings have also been established for your protection. Dealers must post these prices conspicuously. Don't pay more.

Give your whole support to rationing and thereby conserve our vital goods. Be guided by the rule:

"If you don't need it, DON'T BUY IT."

NEW YORK OPENING, FRIDAY, JUNE 4TH

Watch for Announcement of Arrival in Your City

Mrs. Claude R. Wickard, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, studies the inspiring faces of Rockwell's Vermont neighbors in his painting of Freedom of Worship.

Charles B. Dulcan, Sr., Vice-President and General Manager of The Hecht Co., Washington, expresses his complete approval while discussing the success of the War Bond Show with artist Rockwell.

OPENING June 4th in Rockefeller Center, the thrilling U.S. Treasury Department-Saturday Evening Post War Bond Show continues its tour of the nation's cities.

World premiered in the nation's capital, Norman Rockwell's originals of the Four Freedoms attracted thousands who saw, for the first time, these pictorial representations of the meaning in the President's historic words.

Crowds thronged the picture filled aisles of the Hecht Department Store to witness the first public showing of famous Saturday Evening Post illustrations and cartoons.

War Savings Bond and Stamp purchases exceeded all previous records at The Hecht Co.—whose Vice-President and General Manager, Charles B. Dulcan, Sr., received a citation by the U. S. Treasury Department for the store's previous record in the sale of War Bonds and Stamps. Crowds came to sign the President's Freedom Scroll—to see the exclusive display of miniature uniforms of World Wars I and II—to take advantage of the opportunity to secure an original Saturday Evening Post illustration, cartoon or author's manuscript.

New Yorkers and visitors to New York are urged to attend the Four Freedoms War Bond Show in the magnificent modern International Building at Rockefeller Center, Friday, June 4th, through Sunday, June 13th. It will be held under the auspices of The Fifth Avenue Association, Inc. Stars of stage, screen and radio will be there to entertain you.

Watch for the arrival of Norman Rockwell's original Four Freedoms paintings in your city.

The Under Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Bell preview Rockwell's original paintings of the Four Freedoms prior to Mr. Bell's address delivered over a national network to the World Premiere radio audience.

With rapt, studied attention, thousands of everyday folks viewed the first public exhibition of original paintings by famous illustrators that have appeared in The Saturday Evening Post.

The Bond Counter at The Hecht Company, Washington, manned by the War Savings Staff working to capacity as soldiers, sailors and people in all walks of life invest their dollars to help preserve the Four Freedoms.

Madame Wei and his Excellency, the Ambassador from China, were among the representatives of the United Nations attending the opening of the Four Freedoms Show.

Mrs. Ted R. Gamble, wife of the Assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, adds her name to the Freedom Scroll to be signed by War Bond and Stamp buyers and sent to the President.

Harold N. Graves, Assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, and supervising official of the War Savings Bond Program, heartily approves the War Bond Show.

Capacity audience listens to Justice William O. Douglas, Daniel W. Bell, Norman Rockwell and Lowell Thomas in 139 Station Broadcast of War Bond Show opening.

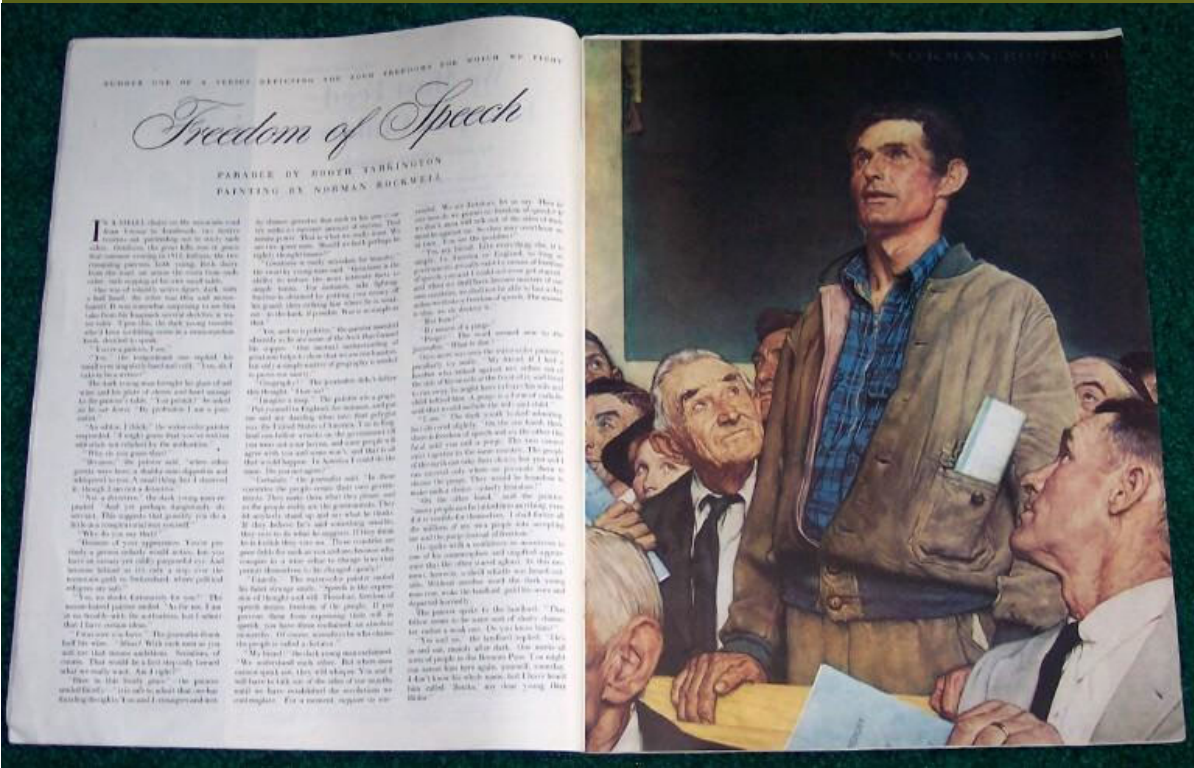

Lowell Thomas chats with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rockwell before broadcasting the War Bond Show opening to the nation.

I WANT to know what we can do about the threat of want in the best part of the world. You might say we work hard to make it, but we don't seem to have any more of it than we have.

The picture has gone through a long and hard road since it was first painted in 1941. It was the work of Norman Rockwell, the artist who painted the "Homecoming Soldier" and the "Homecoming Soldier's Mother". Freedom from Fear

W HAT do we mean when we say "Freedom from fear"? Is it just a right to go about as we please? It is a right to go about as we please and a right to the heart and a thing as we mean it. It is a right to go about as we please and a right to the heart and a thing as we mean it. It is a right to go about as we please and a right to the heart and a thing as we mean it.

There is no strength in that and that our thing, then, is not. It is, through freedom, the right to go about as we please and a right to the heart and a thing as we mean it. It is a right to go about as we please and a right to the heart and a thing as we mean it.

It is not enough to say, "There is no strength in that and that our thing, then, is not. It is, through freedom, the right to go about as we please and a right to the heart and a thing as we mean it. It is a right to go about as we please and a right to the heart and a thing as we mean it."

In our quest —

I would say it was the 47 pictures I did during the last war. Churchill & P had enumerated the "47" in lofty language —
I was deeply affected by them, so I thought it would be a very worthwhile thing to picture them in very simple every day terms, everybody could understand. I thought it would

ARLINGTON
VERMONT

In reply to question "What work of yours did you most enjoy doing, and why? The answer is--The Four Freedom pictures I did during the last war. Churchill and Roosevelt, in their own wonderful language had just proclaimed the Four Freedoms. I deeply wanted to picture these Freedoms in a very simple ~~xxx~~ terms every one would understand. It was the greatest opportunity I had ever had to paint something, ~~which~~ ~~at that moment was~~ of such great interest and importance to the world.

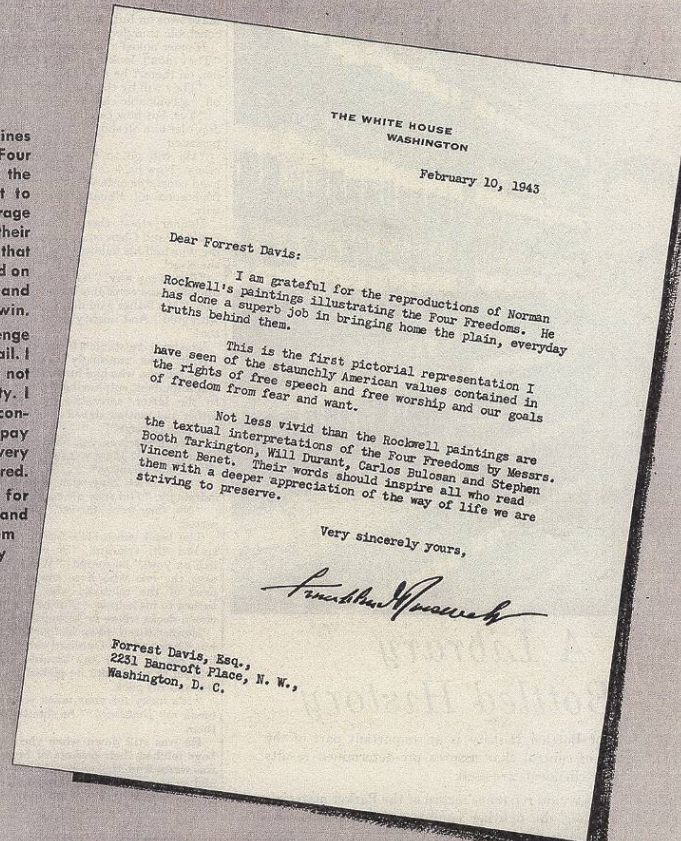

THE soldiers, sailors and marines who fight to establish the Four Freedoms must draw from us the material and moral support to match their magnificent courage and ability. They have staked their lives on the calm knowledge that we will supply, abundantly and on time, the ships and weapons and equipment they must have to win.

Their trust is a sacred challenge to all of us, and we shall not fail. I know that every American will not only meet, but exceed his duty. I know, too, that all of us will consider it a high privilege to help pay the bill by lending to America every possible dollar that can be spared.

For Freedom; for Victory; for America—let us all buy more and more War Bonds. Let us buy them freely and willingly until victory is won.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr.
Secretary of the Treasury
